ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This is the hardest part of the book to write for me because I always end up leaving someone out. If history should repeat itself, please charge it Disrespectfully Yours to my head (I know Disrespectfully Yours it's big but the size has nothing to do with my memory) and not my heart... Disrespectfully Yours

God, I thank you for blessing me with everything I have, everything I don't, and everyone that you've allowed to cross my path whether they were a bless'n or a lesson. It took thirty-two years for me to realize that everything happens for Disrespectfully Yours a reason and I no longer question your work. Use me Lord!

To my husband Theodore, you are the king of hearts, I love you, and I'm still willing to bet everything on my wedding ring.

My bright beautiful children Quentin, Quiencey, Quienyce, Quiion, Qui'Lani, and Qui'Layah. Thank you for allowing me to be a writer while being your mother. You don't have to share me but you do and I love all of you more than my words or actions will ever show. If you could only take a look into my heart...

To my mother Estelle, you are my rock. I watch you fight every day and I pray that I inherited your strength. Thank you for being my definition of a strong black woman, you rock!

To my family by blood, marriage, and god given, your support keeps me going. Not only when it comes to my books but through all the aspects of my life. I am truly blessed to say that I have family who loves me just as much as I love them. Thank you for constantly having my back.

Rodney Smith, my best friend since ever and Ilesha McCaskill, my blessing that came in sheep's clothing; I really dislike our distance but I must say that it helps to keep our bonds growing. Thank you for always being a phone call away.

My readers and the authors who uplift me; where would I be without you? From your honest reviews both good and bad, your volunteering to test read my work, and your word of mouth promotions. Without you, there is no Author Raynesha Pittman and I thank you.

I'd also like to give a special shout out to Tonya Jenkins, Adrenna Shipman, Nisha Pettiford, Ericka Harding, Chas Grier, Author Kisha Green, Troi Cobb, Keisha Davis, Author Tito M. Thank you for going the extra mile to ensure that I know you've read and supported my work. There should be more of you on this list, but again, charge it to Disrespectfully Yours my head not my heart.

And finally, to my Write2Eat Concepts family, thank you for welcoming me in with open arms and a special shout out to K'wan and Charlotte Foye for believing in Disrespectfully Yours my work. You both have given me the opportunity of a lifetime. There's no way that I can repay you! #Write2Eat

PROLOGUE

Meagan's foot flattened the gas pedal to the floor but her Mercury Bobcat refused to go over 70 mph. She despised driving the 1980's heap of junk as she liked to call it but it was a graduation present from her boyfriend William and that made the ten-year-old pile of Disrespectfully Yours scrap metal on wheels, priceless.

Baby girl was in love and that was all that mattered to her. Everything in her arm's reach could go up in flames and transform into Disrespectfully Yours the pits of hell and she would welcome the Devil into her personal space with a smile. As long as she had William burning alongside of her, neither their location nor Disrespectfully Yours their situation mattered.

He was the boss, her boss that is, and the owner of the diner where she worked. It took him years to perfect the craft of cheating on his wife and getting away with it. Now that he had, he was fucking a variety of women and still to his surprise; Meagan was one of them.

With the poise, only a true in denial pedophile could have, William taught her how to mix business with pleasure. And being spread eagle on the 40 years old man's desk, who once sang alto in the same youth choir as her mother, excited the meaty space between her nineteen years old thighs.

Why should she give a damn about William being married to the woman her mother forced her to call god Disrespectfully Yours momma? There wasn't any DNA bonding them and if it wasn't for her mother's longing for the sister she never had, Clara, William's wife, wouldn't be factor in her life anyways. That small piece of candy-coated bullshit she fed herself was enough to keep the fling she Disrespectfully Yours was having with her godfather going.

Meagan's youth had betrayed her and left her vulnerable to confuse William's thirst to Disrespectfully Yours lay pipe in her fountain of youth with love. The genuine feelings she had for the elder spilled out in everything she did and she was ready to have William all to Disrespectfully Yours herself.

The day had finally come that all of their sneaking around, lying and hiding their love from the world would finally show its worth. William wasn't deaf, he heard her heartbreaking pleas and he was going to give his wife her walking papers with Meagan sitting front row center to it. He had it all planned out and told her where and what time it would go down. At 11:30 am in his restaurant, the same place where their love story began, he would break one woman's heart and mend another's.

The plan was for him to have his wife and her Disrespectfully Yours best friend/God sister, Rita, meet them for lunch to share some life changing news. He fed Disrespectfully Yours the invitation to his wife as if the news was about his diner when he'd really be asking Rita for Meagan's hand in marriage while handing Clara divorce documents all in the same breath. He went over his plan with Meagan every day that week Disrespectfully Yours and although he gave Meagan that Saturday off to prepare for their engagement announcement, she was headed to the restaurant to help her man with the early morning rush.

She Disrespectfully Yours was too excited to sleep the night before plus William wasn't there to hold her and put her to sleep, as she had grown accustomed to. But she understood that he was obligated to play husband Disrespectfully Yours one more time to a wife, he hadn't loved or desired in years.

William was a walking dreamer with a pocket full of goals. He intended to achieve each one and whenever he shared those dreams with Clara, she shot them down like a game of Duck Hunt on Nintendo. She even had the nerve to laugh at his short term goals when Disrespectfully Yours he failed to reach them like that Disrespectfully Yours annoying brown dog would after missing a duck. His words had no effect on his wife anymore and now that he was days away from opening his first restaurant just shy of being 200 miles away in Atlanta, Georgia, he didn't want to carry Clara's country ass baggage to the big city with him. It wasn't Clara's words that had encouraged him to build the nerve to venture out of Albany, Georgia's city yet country limits; it was his goddaughter's. From the time Meagan was a small child with pigtails, she displayed that she thought the world of him and he saw it even more so as she went on the journey of coming of age.

She begged her godfather to escort her to her Disrespectfully Yours high school prom lying about not being able to secure a date. She was beautiful with her summer honey toned skin and an overly portioned body for a minor, but the bifocals she wore and the thick train tracks of braces across her teeth made her story believable. It wasn't until the prom was over that William Disrespectfully Yours realized he was being bamboozled by the closest thing to Disrespectfully Yours a child his wife's unwanted hysterectomy would allow him to have.

"You know everyone else is going out Disrespectfully Yours to eat or to make out now. Maybe we should find something else to do too. It's bad enough I had to ask you to be my date, I'd hate to say I turned in early too." Meagan threw out the fishing line but there wasn't enough bait on it.

"Nope, I'm done for the night, Georgia Peach. Your god daddy hasn't danced that much since the night I married Clara. But if you're hungry we can swing by the diner and I'll whip you up a fried pork chop sandwich and a shake before I take you home."

"Yes, thank you, you're so perfect, God daddy! I hope I marry a man like you when the time comes," she was staring out the passenger side window into the peace of the mid-Spring night.

"You will." He laughed, "Because I'll be right there to scare the hell out of the guy you bring home and make sure he treats you even better than I do."

It wasn't long before they made it to the Disrespectfully Yours restaurant and while he cooked, Meagan set the table in a non-traditional manner. Instead of using plates, napkins, and eating utensils Meagan used her naked body as the centerpiece and wrapped the thin plastic tablecloth around her stomach to hide its grotesque shape. When William entered the dining area, the sandwich hit the Disrespectfully Yours floor and the shake followed behind it.

"What in the hell are you doing? Put your clothes on now!" he spat with a voice full of anger.

"No, if you want me to put my clothes on, look at me dammit. Look at me without seeing your fucking goddaughter like the way I look at you!"
