Chapter 1

Amanda sighed as she remembered the scene that had changed her relationship. Weeks ago on the battlefield Eliah had revealed that Amanda was a Chosen One. Eliah stood in all her Priestess glory and had announced:

“Maarcalaen, commander of the Life Clan, step forward.” Priestess Eliah commanded.

“My priestess.” Maarc bowed to her.

“Your mate is the Chosen One of the Lavender stone; the stone with the power of protection. Keep yourself safe for her.”

Maarc nodded, “I will my Priestess.”

Everything had changed the instant those words were exchanged between her best friend My Alien Mate: Chosen Revealed and her mate. She had stood My Alien Mate: Chosen Revealed frozen within the remnants of battle on the surface of Saris as the realization had sunk in. She still at times could not believe that she was now a Chosen One. She had yet to become a truly Chosen One since she had yet to take possession of her stone. Her seeker had been searching for her far from Earth and had not yet arrived to meet her and begin her training.

“What’s wrong?” Eliah asked as she heard her best friend’s sigh.

“Nothing.” Amanda mumbled.

Eliah shrugged, “If you say so. You got many out-calls today?”

The women had quit their jobs months ago when it My Alien Mate: Chosen Revealed had become clear that their new lives with My Alien Mate: Chosen Revealed their alien mates was too complicated to be able to sustain a nine to five job. Eliah had My Alien Mate: Chosen Revealed started teaching business classes for the local community college which allowed her plenty of time at home since she taught her classes via the college’s online format option. Amanda had started working from home as an IT specialist. Most of the time she could help people over the phone but sometimes she had to go out on service calls.

“Only two today.” Amanda turned her attention from her coffee cup to her friend, “You grading papers today?”

“Probably but I can still do happy hour.” She grinned.

“It’s a date. Come get me when you’re ready. I won’t be out very long.” Amanda smiled, stood and made her way outside through the front door.

She walked the short distance to her house. She liked living next door to her best friend. It gave both women the opportunity to seek one another out quickly when they were happy, sad, or pissed off at their mates. Amanda seemed to be in the latter mood these days.

“I thought your brunch with Eliah would have been longer?” Maarc commented as Amanda walked into the house they shared.

“I have two out-calls and she has papers to grade before we can go out to enjoy happy hour.” Amanda replied. “What are you still doing here?”

Maarc tensed, “I was just leaving. I hope you two have a good time at happy hour.”

“Are you hoping I will have such a great time that I won’t return Maarc?” Amanda wanted to punch the handsome and sexy alien man standing before her.

“Amanda, you know that I care for you but...” Maarc tried to explain.

Amanda snorted, “Ya sure you do. You care so much for me that you won’t even touch me anymore.” She didn’t wait for his comeback; she turned on her heel and headed for her bedroom.

She closed the door quietly and leaned against it letting the tears she had been holding back fall freely. She wanted to hate him for hurting her so badly but every time she saw him all she wanted was for him to hold her again. Ever since Eliah My Alien Mate: Chosen Revealed had declared her a Chosen One, Maarc had retreated from her. She didn’t understand why he was rejecting her and he would not talk to My Alien Mate: Chosen Revealed her about it other than to tell her it was for the best.

My Alien Mate: Chosen Revealed She peeled herself off the door. She needed to wash away the tears and get ready for her out-calls. Soon she would have to confront her mate and demand an explanation. She needed to know what the hell was My Alien Mate: Chosen Revealed going on with inside the man’s head in order to assuage her turbulent feelings which were making her My Alien Mate: Chosen Revealed physically ill at times. At least she thought it was her emotions that were causing her such fatigue and weakness at times. She collected her work bag and headed out to do her job.

***

Maarc had wanted to stay with her and ease her mind but he could not. She was a Chosen One, a fact that had been revealed after they had already mated and had created the bond that tied them together; a bond that he belatedly realized should have never been allowed to happen. It was true that Eliah was a mated Chosen One My Alien Mate: Chosen Revealed but she was also the Mother Priestess and so she could take the pain that would come through her mate and clear it from her body. But Amanda carried the curse of the Chosen Ones without the benefit of the strength of a priestess. She could be hurt immensely through him and the pain he could cause her would be endless for her. The same fate would befall the remaining Chosen Ones if they found their fated mates and created the bond. How could he condemn Amanda to a life of pain if he were to be hurt? Or worse, what if he caused her death?

“Things have changed Maarc; maybe what once afflicted the Chosen of old will not afflict the new order.” Jaek knew his friend was struggling with the implications just as he had once done so

Maarc turned to his longtime friend and fellow commander, “Elijah is the Mother Priestess, which has proven to be a benefit for her in dealing with the My Alien Mate: Chosen Revealed curse of the Chosen.”

“Maybe it is her Priestess side that helps her endure and disperse the pain I may cause her or maybe it is something else. I feel there is more to it than we know even the elders agree that things are not as they once were.” My Alien Mate: Chosen Revealed Jaek hoped his friend would not give up on his mate.

My Alien Mate: Chosen Revealed

“Has Elijah had any visions to make you believe that things are different for My Alien Mate: Chosen Revealed the new Chosen Ones?” Maarc asked.

Jaek shook his head, “The visions she is having these days are not specific to the Chosen Ones.”

“And the elders My Alien Mate: Chosen Revealed have not found anything helpful in the archives. So My Alien Mate: Chosen Revealed there is little hope that the curse of the Chosen has been altered in any way.” Maarc wished the damn curse would disappear and wondered why the Chosen Ones had been cursed to either live their long lives un-mated or suffer through unbearable pain and even death through their mate.

“Do not lose hope. Our Priestess knew Amanda was a Chosen One yet she let the mating occur. That has to mean something.” Jaek was sure it did indeed mean something.

“Maybe.” Was all Maarc could say.

Chapter 2

“Woohoooo!” Amanda shouted after taking her eighth shot. Or was it her ninth? She couldn't recall and didn't care at the moment.

Elijah grinned, “I think our mates are My Alien Mate: Chosen Revealed gonna be shuper pissed when we get home.”

“Well then they should’ve of come instead of sending poor Kelaeie here.” Amanda hiccupped.

“I do not mind ensuring my Priestess and her family are safe.” Kelaeie smiled at the two very intoxicated women.

“Awwwe that shweet. Ishn’t that shweet Mandy.” Eliah couldn’t seem to say her S’ without the SH sound.

Amanda giggled, “Oh yeah very SHweet Eli.”

My Alien Mate: Chosen Revealed

Eliah snorted, “Oh pleashe like you talking any better.”
