About the Authors

Scott and Lisa Hatch have prepared students for careers in the legal field for over 25 years. While in law school in the late '70s, Scott Hatch taught LSAT preparation courses throughout Southern California to pay for his education. After graduation, he went out on his own and, at the urging of one of his students, added paralegal courses to his course offerings. Using materials he developed Paralegal Career For Dummies himself, he then prepared thousands of eager career seekers to work as paralegals, legal nurse consultants, legal secretaries, legal investigators, mediators, and victim advocates.

Scott and Lisa kindled their romance in the classroom. Lisa took one of Scott's LSAT preparation courses at the University of Colorado and improved her love life as well as her LSAT score. Lisa's love for instructing and writing allowed her to fit right in with Scott's lifestyle, teaching courses and preparing course materials. They married shortly thereafter.

Since then, Scott and Lisa have taught students worldwide. Currently, over 300 universities and colleges offer their courses through live lectures, correspondence, and online, and Scott and Lisa have written the curriculum for all formats. The company they have built together, The Center for Legal Studies, provides courses for those who desire careers in the field of law (including paralegals, legal secretaries, legal investigators, victim advocates, and legal nurse consultants) and who need preparation for the gamut of standardized tests.

Scott has presented standardized test and legal career courses since 1980. He received his undergraduate degree from the University of Colorado and his Juris Doctorate from Southwestern University School Paralegal Career For Dummies of Law. He's listed in Who's Who in California and Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities, and he was named one of the Outstanding Young Men of America by the United States Jaycees. He was a contributing editor to The Judicial Profiler and the Colorado Law Annotated series and has served as editor of several award winning publications.

Lisa has been teaching legal certificate and standardized test courses since 1987. She graduated with honors in English from the University of Puget Sound, and received her master's degree from California State University. She and Scott have co-authored numerous Paralegal Career For Dummies law and standardized test texts, including Paralegal Procedures and Practices; A Paralegal Primer; and SAT II U.S. History For Dummies, SAT II Biology For Dummies, and SAT II Math For Dummies (Wiley).

Dedication

We dedicate our For Dummies series books to Alison, Andrew, Zachary, and Zoe Hatch. Rather than file missing persons reports on their parents with local Paralegal Career For Dummies law enforcement agencies, they demonstrated extreme patience, understanding, Paralegal Career For Dummies and assistance while we wrote this book.

Authors' Acknowledgments

This book wouldn't Paralegal Career For Dummies have been possible without the extensive Paralegal Career For Dummies research and writing contributions of Martin Rollins, JD, and David Newland, JD. Their efforts greatly enhanced our information gathering, and we're deeply grateful to them.

We also need to acknowledge the input of the thousands of paralegal, legal secretary, legal investigator, and legal nurse consultant students who've completed our law career certificate courses over the last Paralegal Career For Dummies 25 years. The classroom and online contributions offered by these dedicated learners have provided us with lots of input about what prospective paralegals want and need to know Paralegal Career For Dummies most.

The editing professionals at Wiley Publishing greatly facilitated our writing process. Our thanks go out to Elizabeth Kuball for her support and attention to detail, Peggy Kirk for her insights into the paralegal career, and Tracy Boggier for initiating us to the process and being available whenever we had questions.

Finally, we want to acknowledge our literary agent, Margo Maley Hutchinson, at Waterside Productions in Cardiff for introducing us to the innovative For Dummies series.

Wiley Publishing has to be commended for its pioneering efforts to make finding out about new careers fun. We thrive on positive reinforcement and feedback from our students and encourage our readers to provide comments and critiques Paralegal Career For Dummies at feedback@legalstudies.com.
