First Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One Edition March 2015

Big Beautiful Women is a website for servicemen.

“We’re looking for that Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One special lady. You will be spoiled and cared for. Do you dare take the chance and register? Who knows what will be beyond that next click?”

A dating website set up by the Wilmot brothers as a backup warning system. A network that only military-families have access to. Not even the government could break through their security, but no one thought that it would be one of the only systems still working in the next few Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One months. And the world as they had known it was now gone.

Chapter One

Blood covered her hands, shoes and aching body. Alex Martin knew her ankle Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One was badly twisted, at the very least. Her Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One finger was broken, along with maybe a few ribs, but she was alive. Her ears still rang from the fatal gunshot that was responsible for the bullet wound in her attacker's head.

What she had done had been the only way to stop the man from killing her and the baby she carried. Alex closed her eyes, and leaned her head against the wall. She tried to remember something to make her smile.

Her lip hurt, but she did smile, remembering that Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One first night she'd been with her three men. They were hers, Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One Bo, Rafe and Justin. She lifted her hand and placed it on her lower belly.

"I don't want to be alone, please hold me," Alex had begged Bo. She knew he was the one that always made the decisions for the group.

He cupped her face before kissing her lips softly. "If we stay, I can't promise we'll be gentlemen."

"Why would I want gentlemen?" Alex teased, hoping he would get the hint. She needed them holding her and if it led to something else, so be it. Alex had never had a one-night stand, but these men were well worth it. Who could pass up having three men touching every inch of your body? Plus, it took her mind off the anniversary of the death of her son, six years ago.

The first clue that they were staying was when Bo lifted his T-shirt up over his head. "Rafe, Alex is wearing too many clothes, why don't you help her strip. After all, it's going to get a little warm in here." And boy had he been right.

Opening her eyes, Alex shivered at the blood splattered around her. She had tried using her knife three times. Alex had stabbed her assailant while he choked and punched her, but it was as if he'd been on some kind of drug. He kept hitting her, so she'd grabbed hold of his pistol and shot him. Rising to her feet, Alex tucked the gun into the back of her pants. She scanned the area around her, making sure there were no other attackers.

Not seeing anyone else, Alex started on her trip back towards the main tunnel. Her ankle killing her, Alex limped down the smaller, older tunnel she'd found an hour ago. Her hand automatically rubbed her belly, and she shivered. Alex remembered the one time Bo had taken her hard and fast, before they had been interrupted.

"Bo does not like to be teased..." she laughed, but inside Alex wished for his arms around her right now.

Not even her best friend Laura knew that she was carrying Bo's baby. Alex had had all the signs of pregnancy - she'd missed her monthly and her breasts were tender. One thing that had always been certain in her life was the bloody curse women everywhere got. Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One She just hoped that side hit to the ribs didn't damage anything or hurt her baby.

With Laura busy with her men, and their mother Nadine taking care of Laura's son Max, Alex had become bored and lonely. She so wanted to see Rafe, Bo and Justin. Not to mention give them a piece of her mind, leaving her like they had. Not just for a damn week, a very long month had gone by. Alex still couldn't get their faces out of her head or the memory of their touch.

Right now she sure wouldn't mind having them around. Alex wanted Bo to know he was going to be a father before she told anyone. Alex snorted. Who the hell was she kidding? In that one night the big jerks had formed a circle around her heart, claiming it as theirs. But could they work through the extra emotional baggage she carried?

Patting her belly, Alex whispered. "Maybe it's a sign. Telling me it's time to move on."

Laura handled her problems. It was time for Alex to do the same with hers. But there was that doubt that grew inside her. Would they even welcome a child?

And what of the Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One child? She'd been there when the aliens had come. When they'd told Grant and the rest of them that they carried alien DNA. Bo carried alien DNA. Her child carried alien DNA. What would that do to her?

Hearing footsteps, Alex pulled out the gun, dropped into a crouch, and waited. Even though the sounds were coming from the tunnels she had recently walked through, she damn well wasn't going to take anything for granted. She'd be ready if anyone else tried to kill her or the baby again today. With her hands shaking, Alex waited.

"Alex, where are you?" Daniel yelled.

A small cry escaped her as she dropped the gun and slid to the floor.

“What happened, Pretty Lady?” Seth asked, kneeling down and taking in her appearance.

Pointing down the tunnel, she Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One reported, “He came out of nowhere. At first I thought he was part of your group, that’s when he first hit me. I tried to stop him. I think I shot him. He was too big and he just kept coming,” her voice squeaked and she started to shake. “So cold,” her voice was Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One jittery.

“She’s going into shock, “ Seth said. “I have to get her back to the tunnels under the compound.” He reached under her and carefully picked her up. But even that little movement hurt and she whimpered.

“Ribs hurt.” Alex rested her head on Seth’s shoulder.

“Laura Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One is going to have a fit. I want to know why this tunnel wasn’t sealed off and who that is down there,” Daniel ordered. Ten other men came running with weapons drawn.

Daniel looked down at her as they made their way back to the newer tunnels. “What were you doing down there, Alex? You could have been killed,” he shoved open a door. Roman stood waiting for them with Laura.

“Alex!” her friend cried.

“I’m fine. Just a few broken bones, I think. I’ll be okay,” she tried to reassure her friend, but was just so tired.

“Don’t you go to sleep on me yet Alex,” Seth said. “Answer Daniel’s questions.” He seemed to be moving faster toward what was now the medical center for the compound.

“I was bored. I went exploring. I didn’t think that there would be anything dangerous down here... I just wanted to see them. I needed to talk with Bo. Stupid, I know. Should make them come back to me. Never again, stupid men,” she groaned. “He ruined my favorite jeans.” She tried not to cry, but the tears rolled down her cheeks.

Reaching the medical unit, Seth laid her onto the hospital bed.

“Sweetie, I’m going to have to take these bloody things off now. I need to see where you’re hurt,” Seth mumbled. His gaze traveled down her body trying to assess the damage.

She nodded, not caring if anyone could see her fat black body. “Whatever, but be warned, there’s a lot of fat.” She tried to close her eyes, but once again Seth stopped that.

“Oh, no you don’t. Keep those beautiful eyes on me, pretty lady. And you’re not fat. You’re beautiful, round in all the right places.” He ripped her shirt right down the middle with his bare hands, shocking her with his Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One strength.

“Wow, impressive.” She wiggled her eyebrows and he laughed. Alex turned to see Laura standing there, smiling and shaking her head.

“Why didn’t you come and get me?” Laura asked, Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One taking her hand.

“You are lucky she didn’t or I’d be beating your ass,” Roman grumbled and moved into the hallway as Seth stripped Alex of her clothes. Only Laura and Seth were in the room when the door flew open and Nadine rushed in.

“What the hell happened?” With her hands on her hips, she looked at Alex. “You know better than going off by yourself. You should have taken one of us Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One with you.” Nadine had repeated what Laura had Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One said and Seth snorted.

“None of you should be going anywhere without an escort. Until this threat is gone you need to be more careful,” Seth said. He threw her clothes into the trash while covering her with a paper-like blanket. “I’m going to get some warm water and clean you up so I can see where you are hurt, but can you give me a general idea here what I’m dealing with?”

“First tell me why in the hell every hospital has to have these paper blankets? They don’t keep anything warm,” she snapped and fidgeted with it. “Laura, make a list. New blankets for this place. I have a broken Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One finger, maybe a Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One few ribs on my side and I think I sprained my ankle. Oh, and my head is killing me. Got any aspirin? Wait! Forget that, can’t have aspirin now.” she rambled on and he shook his head.

“No aspirin until I find out what all Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One is wrong. Why can’t you have any? Are you allergic to anything?” he asked, turning to the cupboard. He grabbed what appeared to be a bucket, filling it with water.

“No,” she sighed and looked back at Laura. “At least I get a sponge bath from a hot man,” she tried to joke around.

Both Laura and Nadine snorted. “You have no shame, you hussy,” Laura kissed the side of her head. “Don’t do this again. I can’t lose you Alex.”

“Hey, you’re not going to lose me. You know I’m a tough bird. Plus, Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One I was doing what you said.” Alex really wished she could just go back to her room and curl up in her own bed. Her ribs were starting to throb.

“What did I say?” Laura asked while Seth proceeded to wash her down. He started at her feet, checking on her ankle.

“Damn that hurts,” Alex tried to move away from his probing hands, but her ribs stopped her movements instantly. “I’m so going to kill those three jerks. Oh no, they had to go play hero, damn it. Remember, no shots or pills... baby.” She looked at Laura, but Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One the room was getting Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One darker. “Who’s playing with...”

“Seth!” Laura yelled, scared, as Alex passed out.

“It’s alright, but what did she Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One say about a Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One baby? Laura, is Alex pregnant?” he looked at her and Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One she frowned.

“She hasn’t told me anything. Lately I’ve been so busy. God, I ignored my friend,” she cried out reaching for Alex’s hand.

“Stop Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One that. Alex would be the first to tell you to shut up. She knows you are still getting accustomed to your men and she understands.” Nadine rubbed her arm and tucked the paper blanket tighter around Alex.

Seth nodded and started to examine her. “She has a nice bump on her head. Her Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One ankle is broken, not Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One sprained. I need to take some x-rays, but don’t want to till I find out if she’s pregnant.” He moved to a cabinet and drew a needle out. Seth rubbed her arm with alcohol and then took a blood sample.

“I thought it takes days to get results back?” Laura watched him and he snorted.

“For a normal doctor yes, but for me, a few seconds. The Wilmot’s did not waste their money. I have the best equipment money can buy and the newest, thanks to the government.” All the while he talked Secrets Unwrapped: The Sugar Daddies, Book One he stared at the computer screen next to the sample. When the screen came up green, he laughed.
